DEATH OF WELL KNOWN CITIZEN

Solomon Schwartz, Former County Commissioner Dies at the Home of his Daughter. Held Other Public Offices.

Solomon Schwartz, practically all of his life a prominent resident of Adams County, died on Tuesday evening at 7.45 at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Louisa Grove, in Hanover, at the age of 85 years, 5 months and 10 days.

Mr. Schwartz moved to Hanover in May after having resided in Conewago township, near Schwartz's school house, for almost his entire life. He was a successful farmer and in addition took an active part in politics, being county commissioner in 1881 and serving an unexpired term as jury commissioner in 1896. In addition to these offices he was tax collector and school director in his township at various times.

He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Schwartz, deceased, and was born near East Berlin. He was twice married, his first wife, Miss Margaret Basehor, of Union township, dying in January, 1884. In 1888 he married Mrs. Ellen Harnish, widow of Jacob Harnish, of Union township, who survives him with the following children of his first wife, George Schwartz, Jacob F. Schwartz, Emory A. Schwartz and Mrs. Louisa Grove, of Hanover; Charles Schwartz, of Taneytown; Mrs. Della Myers, of New Oxford; Maurice Schwartz, of near New Oxford and Riley Schwartz, of near Gettysburg.

Funeral on Friday morning from the home of his daughter in Hanover after which further services will be held at Christ Reformed church, near Littlestown, Dr. F. S. Lindaman, of Littlestown, officiating. Mr. Schwartz was a member of this church and for a number of years was superintendent of the Sunday School.

DEATH OF A CHILD

Cletus A. Ruttgers, aged 18 months, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Ruttgers, of Mt. Pleasant, Conewago township, died at 10 p. m., Monday, August 19, from a complication of diseases.

Funeral—Wednesday, August 21, services at the house at 2 p. m.

A GOOD time awaits everybody at the dance to be given by the band at Round Top on Thursday evening.

PROMISE RAPID WORK ON ROADS

Expect Force of Men to be Put on Gettysburg End of New Oxford Road by End of the Week. Work on Other Roads.

Edward S. Frey, superintendent of the state highway work in York and Adams counties was here today in connection with operations in this section. He stated that by the end of the week he expected to have another roller at work between Gettysburg and New Oxford and that when it arrived a force of men would be put on the Gettysburg end of the road.

The trouble in getting hands has been in part overcome and men will be here as soon as the contractor is ready to have the work started. Eight concrete culverts are to be included in the road between the two towns. Of these, one is completed near Gettysburg; a second near the Hospital Woods, is nearing completion, and two others have had satisfactory progress made. It is hoped to get the entire road ready for travel by the end of the fall.

The work already done on the road between Gettysburg and Harrisburg is proving a source of great satisfaction to automobilists. The breakers have been removed and after each series of heavy rains the road is dragged in various sections, keeping it in good repair all the time.

Similar work is planned on the road between Gettysburg and Fairfield, and the road near Biglerville, from the end of the macadam at Keckler's Hill, is also to be taken care of in this way.

It is expected that the "state aid" road in the vicinity of Hunterstown will also be taken up this week and two miles of macadam will be laid there. In the case of these state aid roads the county pays twenty five per cent, the township the same amount and the state the balance.

M'SHERRYSTOWN

Edward Finley, of Washington, D.C., spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Krichen and family, Main street.

C. G. Smith and family, of Main street, spent Sunday with friends at York.

Lorin Martin, manager of the flying horses at Witmer's Park, left for Berwick where he will attend the races this week.

Miss Helena Kirk, of Lancaster county, and Miss Margie Holloway, of Harford county, Md., are visiting relatives and friends in this place and vicinity.

Faber Bollinger, of North street, has returned home after spending a week with friends at Littlestown.

Emanuel Becker, of Main street, has the champion tomato, which weighs over 2 1/2 pounds and measures 17 inches in circumference.

EMPTY PISTOL AS USUAL

Milton Stoler, a boarder at Mt. Forest Inn, Pen Mar, was shot in the face with a pistol ball Tuesday morning, when a 32 caliber revolver in the hands of Lawrence Crist, Berwyn, Md., was discharged. A crowd of young men were playing with the revolver and did not know it was loaded. Stoler was about three feet from Crist when it went off.

The bullet entered near the right cheek bone and ploughed its way to a point below the ear where it lodged. Drs. Beck, Tomblason and Tomblison ministered to the victim. There were no immediate serious results.

Stoler was taken to a Baltimore hospital, in the afternoon. The accident happened midway between Hotel Edge-wood and the dancing pavilion.

BABY sulkies, tricycles, boy's hand cars, all reduced. Adams County Hardware Co.

THE party who took the gum blanket from a buggy at Grape Vine festival on Saturday is hereby notified to return it at once to Table Rock and avoid trouble.

DON'T forget the band dance at Round Top Thursday evening.

WANTED: small farm already stocked. Address John E. Himes, Gettysburg, Route 12, in care of Mrs. William Himes.

A GOOD time awaits everybody at the dance to be given by the band at Round Top on Thursday evening.

BASE BALL GETS MORE EXCITING

Methodists and Catholics Play a Tie Game. All the Scoring Done in First Inning. Change among the Leaders Soon.

Matters in Sunday School league circles became more interesting than ever when the Catholics and Methodists played a 1-1 tie on Tuesday evening. The game will have to be listed among those postponed and will come up again on August 30. Collection $4.07.

It was one of the best played games of the entire season, close and exciting throughout, and the result was in doubt until the very end. In the last inning with the score a tie both teams succeeded in getting men to second but could not put them over with the winning run.

The scoring was all done in the first. Shields, for the Methodists, knocked a fly back of the pitcher's box which dropped safe. He stole second and scored on Pfaff's hit. Charles Stock scored the Catholics' run. He got around to third on a ball which he hit to right field that Howard Horner had difficulty finding in the high grass. He scored on a passed ball.

Maurice Ridinger and Armer were the battery for the Methodists and Joe Stock and Breighner for the Catholics.

This evening's game between St. James and Reformed will change the leaders of the league, breaking the present tie and giving all of the three teams at the head of the column a different standing. The team winning will take the lead, the Catholics will come second and the losing team third.

	W.	L.	P. C.
Catholic	5	2	.714
Reformed	5	2	.714
St. James	5	2	.714

ROBBED BY SOLDIER

Charged with breaking into the residence of Mrs. Paul Trostle, who resides along the York Gettysburg turnpike, a man giving his name as Arthur Rowe, aged 22 years, has been arrested and is now in the York county jail awaiting a hearing. The arrest was made by Constable Joseph Sample, of Paradise township.

The arrest was made Monday after a search since last Friday, when the offense was committed. Rowe, in the uniform of a United States soldier, was seen lying under a shade tree near the Trostle residence, in the afternoon, by Mrs. Trostle. She went to the house of a neighbor, fearing that the man might harm her, and while the house was unguarded, it is alleged, Rowe broke in and stole money and other articles.

At the jail Rowe would make no statement, but it is supposed that he is a deserter from the army. He was wearing the uniform at the time of his arrest. The man will be given a hearing before the Paradise township justice of the peace this week.

HORSES ON RACING CIRCUIT

The Buttonwood Stock Farm has some promising campaigners this season, and they will likely be heard from on the racing circuits. A string was shipped to New York this month and this is what they have been doing in training:

"Bettie Hale" worked a mile in 2:55—last quarter in 40 seconds. She is a yearling, by "Senator Hale."

"Dolly Corbatta" worked in company with "Bettie Hale" in 2:25—last quarter in 31 1/2 seconds.

"Punch" worked a mile in 2:28 1/4—last quarter 35 1/2 seconds.

"May Queen" made a mile in 2:40—last quarter 37 seconds.

"Baroness Jay," another "Senator Hale" descendant, went in 2:35 1/4—last quarter, 35 1/4 seconds.

"Robbie Hale," a 2-year-old, worked in 2:28 1/4—last quarter, 36 seconds.

Another yearling of "Senator Hale's" stepped one eighth of a mile in 18 1/2 seconds.

They also have another lot of good young stock, including trotter, "Pat Hagerson," by Major Hagerson.

WILL PUT ON THIRD STORY

Max Davis will put a third story on the building which he is now remodeling. The front will be given a stucco finish.

FOR SALE: Goodwood typewriter desk and chair, good as new at a bargain. Times office.

WANTED: young men above the age of 14 years to learn finishing and cabinet making. Gettysburg Furniture Company.

GENERAL BOOTH DIES IN LONDON

Founder of Salvation Army Succumbs to Long Illness.

WAS 83 YEARS OF AGE

Started Crusade to Save Souls Forty-Five Years Ago in Slums of London and Movement is Still Progressing.

London, Aug. 21.—General William Booth, founder and commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army, died here. General Booth, who was eighty-three years old, had been seriously ill for several months. His condition was so serious that the end was expected. He had been unconscious for some hours.

He had been failing since last May when an operation for cataract was performed on his left eye.

William Booth was born in Nottingham, Eng., April 10, 1829. His father was a carpenter, who had little but a consuming religious zeal to support him in the world. By dint of much economy the carpenter managed to give his son a half education, and to send him to a private theological tutor for preparation in the Methodist ministry. At twenty-three the young man took his first church, a small chapel in Nottingham.

During his travels over England on preaching tour the minister met Catherine Mumford, and after a long engagement they were married in 1858. The Rev. Mrs. Booth was in many ways a remarkable woman. She had the same religious feeling as her husband, the same instinct for organization, and a strong appealing quality in her personality, which later served to attract the people of the slums of London to her.

He laid a plan before the conference of Methodist new connection church. It was radical; they would have none of it.

Before 1878, when the Salvation Army had its inception, Booth had learned the bitterness of the work that he had selected for himself. Probably the bitterest moments that the indomitable evangelist was ever made to feel followed the first marchings of this atterred Christian army of regenerated souls through the streets of Whitechapel. It was a holiday for the masses whenever a little band straggled out of their tabernacle and marched behind their weeping instruments.

Everything that lent itself to hurling was hurled, and in many cases the police sided with the roughs and arrested the Salvationists for obstructing the highways. Then when noise of this sensational evangelizing reached the ears of the clergy of the West End congregations they arose in wrath, and denounced the "vulgar sensationalism" and the irreverent "trumpery" of this Salvation Army.

But Booth persisted in his work. Before the Salvation Army was four years old, General Booth and his wife began the long series of social reforms and sterling charities which stand monuments to their greatness as enduring as the army itself.

Latest statistics show that the army has 8973 corps in the fifty-six countries of both hemispheres, with about 21,000 officers and employees, and millions of members. Records of the army show that annually it houses 6,000,000 persons, and feeds 12,000,000.

With the growth of the Salvation Army came the development of its "generals" insistence upon a despotism more military than any other at tribute of the army. Through that very insistence rose the breach between himself and his son, Ballington, which resulted in the establishment of the independent body known as the Volunteers of America. Probably this break was the greatest grief that was ever visited upon the veteran evangelist.

In 1906 General Booth peremptorily called Ballington Booth from his command in America, and later sent Eva, his daughter, over here, to relieve the rebellious son of his command.

Instead of obeying his father's command to give up his post in America and return to England, General Ballington Booth seceded from the army in the spring of 1906, and with the financial backing of several wealthy men in New York and the support of many of the former loyal Salvationists he started the Volunteers of America. He did not see his father from the time of his secession to the day of General Booth's death, nor was there any communication between them.

Robber Gets Twenty-One Years. New York, Aug. 21.—Chester W. Yates, known as "SI" Yates, was sentenced by Judge Mulqueen to serve twenty-one years in Sing Sing for robbery. Yates was one of the men who on March 2, 1911, attacked Aaron Bancroft, an elderly broker, in the corridor of the Produce Exchange vaults and robbed him of securities worth $85,000.

Farmer Killed by Lightning. Camden, N. J., Aug. 21.—While driving a team over his farm near Merchantville, William Ward, seventy-two years old, was killed by lightning. Two colored farm hands who were in the wagon with him were not hurt.

INDICT SEVEN IN ROSENTHAL CASE

Becker, Four Gunmen and Two Others Held For Murder.

INFORMERS NOT INCLUDED

Zelig and Schepps Tell How Men Are Shot Down in Cold Blood and Murderers Go Free.

New York, Aug. 21.—The grand jury handed down a blanket indictment of seven men for the murder of Herman Rosenthal. Those included in the indictment were: Crofick ("Dago Frank"), gunman. Muller ("Whitey Lewis"), gunman. Rosenweig ("Lefty Louis"), gunman, still at large. Horowitz ("Gyp the Blood"), gunman, still at large. Charles Becker, police lieutenant. William Shapiro, driver of the "murder car."

Jack Sullivan, runner for Becker. The grand jury voted unanimously for the indictment, but refused to return indictments against Sam Schepps, Jack Rose, "Bridgey" Webber, Harry Vallon and Louis Libby, who are being held as material witnesses.

The indictment was handed up to Judge Mulqueen in the court of general sessions. The court set Thursday next as the day for pleading.

The indictment of Lieutenant Becker is a superseding one, returned as a precautionary measure because of the contention of a law existing in the previous indictment.

The grand jurymen gave an unusual exhibition. They applauded themselves so that the sound could be heard plainly outside of the courtroom. It was a signal of satisfaction that the first step had been taken to bring to punishment the men who thought they could shoot down citizens in cold blood and go free.

"Big Jack" Zelig, the gunman, and Sam Schepps, the gambler, told the grand jury a tale linking Becker with the murder of Herman Rosenthal such as to make plain grand jurors pinch themselves to see if they are awake. The statement, as brought out by the district attorney, briefly in its inferences from the sworn facts, is this:

Becker foresaw a necessity for the assassination of Rosenthal. He therefore got Zelig, a man who could and would furnish gunmen murderers for an occasion, into his power by a man unforced charge of felony—merely carrying a gun, a second offense—which might mean fifteen years in prison for Zelig. Then he got Zelig out of prison by making Sam Paul Schepps, Vallon and others hostile to find $10,000 cash for his bail.

Then—"fifteen years in prison, Zelig, unless you get your friends to murder Rosenthal." According to Zelig and Schepps this was what was done. Zelig fled from town. He was in the hands of the New York police in Providence when his counsel discovered that he was practically in the plight of Cuban revolutionary political prisoner.

Whitman astonished the grand jury with this testimony.

Sam Schepps told his whole narrative of the affair leading up to the Rosenthal murder. This corroborated the statements of Jack Rose, the original informer, whose statements defenders of the police have endeavored to discredit by calling attention to the obvious motives for him to invent the tale he has told. But now, when, without opportunity of collusion, Schepps tells a tale that tallies in all respects with Rose's, Mr. Whitman believes both will gain weight and credibility.

It was for this reason that Whitman advised the grand jury to wait before finding indictments against the four gunmen and the others involved in the case. The preliminary work of the prosecutor can now be pushed to a prompt close.

District Attorney Whitman also took before the grand jury evidence to show the possession by Becker of about $90,000 banked in eight months in twelve separate accounts in town and one out of town. There are two other accounts to be mentioned and about a dozen bankers to be questioned.

Walks Off Train in Sleep. Tifton, Ga., Aug. 21.—Fast asleep, Paul Inman, twelve years old, of Tity, Ga., walked from a swiftly moving Atlantic coast line train. The shock of the fall failed to awaken him. He was found by a party of searchers near Willacooche. Young Inman bore no bruises.

One Battleship Goes Through. Washington, Aug. 21.—By a vote of 151 to 50 the house adopted the conference report on the naval appropriation bill. The measure, which will now go to the president, provides for one battleship and a number of submarines, colliers and auxiliary vessels.

Dies of Ivy Poisoning. Baltimore, Aug. 21.—Rev. Herbert F. Wright, pastor of Towson Methodist Protestant church, died suddenly at his home at Towson of blood poisoning. About ten days ago his flesh was poisoned by poison ivy, and the infection turned to blood poisoning.

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION SUBMITTED TO THE CITIZENS OF THIS COMMONWEALTH FOR THEIR APPROVAL OR REJECTION, BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA, AND PUBLISHED BY ORDER OF THE SECRETARY OF THE COMMONWEALTH, IN PURSUANCE OF ARTICLE XVIII OF THE CONSTITUTION.

Number One.
A JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing an amendment to article nine, section four, of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, authorizing the State to issue bonds to the amount of fifty millions of dollars for the improvement of the highways of the Commonwealth.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be, and the same hereby, proposed, in accordance with the eighteenth article thereof:

That section four of article nine, which reads as follows:

"Section 4. No debt shall be created by or on behalf of the State, except to supply casual deficiencies of revenue, repel invasion, suppress insurrection, defend the State in war, or to pay existing debt; and the debt created to supply deficiency in the revenue shall never exceed, in the aggregate at any one time, one million of dollars," be amended so as to read as follows:

Section 4. No debt shall be created by or on behalf of the State, except to supply casual deficiencies of revenue, repel invasion, suppress insurrection, defend the State in war, or to pay existing debt; and the debt created to supply deficiency in the revenue shall never exceed, in the aggregate at any one time, one million of dollars. Provided, however, That the General Assembly, irrespective of any debt, may authorize the State to issue bonds to the amount of fifty millions of dollars for the purpose of improving and rebuilding the highways of the Commonwealth.

A JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing an amendment to section seven, article three of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, so as to permit special legislation regulating labor.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following is proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in accordance with the provisions of the eighteenth article thereof.

Section 2. Amend section seven, article three of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, which reads as follows:

"Section 7. The General Assembly shall not pass any local or special law authorizing the creation, extension, or impairing of liens:

"Regulating the affairs of counties, cities, townships, wards, boroughs, or school districts;

"Changing the names of persons or places;

"Changing the venue in civil or criminal cases;

"Authorizing the laying out, opening, altering, or maintaining roads, highways, streets or alleys;

"Holding to ferries or bridges, or incorporating ferry or bridge companies, except for the erection of bridges crossing streams which form boundaries between this and any other State;

"Vacating roads, town plats, streets or alleys;

"Relating to cemeteries, graveyards, or public grounds not of the State;

"Authorizing the adoption or legitimization of children;

"Locating or changing county-seats, erecting new counties, or changing county lines;

"Incorporating cities, towns, or villages, or changing their charters;

"For the opening and conducting of elections, or fixing or changing the place of voting;

"Granting divorces;

"Erecting new townships or boroughs, changing township lines, borough limits or school districts;

"Creating offices, or prescribing the powers and duties of officers in counties, cities, boroughs, townships, election or school districts;

"Changing the law of descent or succession;

"Regulating the practice or jurisdiction of, or changing the rules of evidence in any judicial proceeding or inquiry before courts, aldermen, justices of the peace, sheriffs, commissioners, arbitrators, auditors, masters in chancery, or other tribunals, or providing or changing methods for the collection of debts, or the enforcing of judgments, or prescribing the effect of judicial sales of real estate;

"Regulating the fees, or extending the powers and duties of aldermen, justices of the peace, magistrates or constables;

"Regulating the management of public schools, the building or repairing of school houses and the raising of money for such purposes;

"Fixing the rate of interest;

"Affecting the estates of minors or persons under disability, except after due notice to all parties in interest, to be recited in the special enactment;

"Remitting fines, penalties and forfeitures, or refunding moneys legally paid into the treasury;

"Exempting property from taxation;

"Regulating labor, trade, mining or manufacturing;

"Creating corporations, or amending, renewing or extending the charters thereof;

"Granting to any corporation, association or individual any special or exclusive privilege or immunity, or to any corporation, association or individual the right to lay down a railroad track;

"Nor shall the General Assembly indirectly enact such special or local law by the partial repeal of a general law; but laws repealing local or special acts may be passed;

"Nor shall any law be passed granting powers and privileges in any case where the granting of such powers and privileges shall have been provided for by general law, nor where the courts have jurisdiction to grant the same or give the relief asked for," so as to read as follows:

Section 7. The General Assembly shall not pass any local or special law authorizing the creation, extension or impairing of liens:

officers, masters in chancery or other tribunals, or providing or changing methods for the collection of debts, or the enforcing of judgments, or prescribing the effect of judicial sales of real estate:

Regulating the fees, or extending the powers and duties of aldermen, justices of the peace, magistrates or constables;

Regulating the management of public schools, the building or repairing of school houses and the raising of money for such purposes;

Fixing the rate of interest:

Affecting the estates of minors or persons under disability, except after due notice to all parties in interest, to be recited in the special enactment;

Remitting fines, penalties and forfeitures, or refunding moneys legally paid into the treasury;

Exempting property from taxation:

Regulating labor, trade, mining or manufacturing; but the legislature may regulate and fix the wages or salaries, the hours of work or labor, and make provision for the protection, welfare and safety of persons employed by the State, or by any county, city, borough, town, township, school district, village, or other civil division of the State, or by any contractor or sub-contractor performing work, labor or services for the State, or for any county, city, borough, town, township, school district, village or other civil division thereof;

Creating corporations, or amending, renewing or extending the charters thereof;

Granting to any corporation, association or individual any special or exclusive privilege or immunity, or to any corporation, association or individual the right to lay down a railroad track;

Nor shall the General Assembly indirectly enact such special or local law by the partial repeal of a general law; but laws repealing local or special acts may be passed;

Nor shall any law be passed granting powers or privileges in any case where the granting of such powers and privileges shall have been provided for by general law, nor where the courts have jurisdiction to grant the same or give the relief asked for.

Number Three.

A CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

Proposing an amendment to section three, article eight of the Constitution of Pennsylvania.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following is proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in accordance with the provisions of the eighteenth article thereof:

Section 2. Amend section three of article eight, which reads as follows:

"All judges elected by the electors of the State shall hold office for a term of years, to be fixed by a general or municipal election, as circumstances may require. All the elections for judges of the courts for the several judicial districts, and for county, city, borough, and township officers, for regular terms of service, shall be held on the municipal election day; namely, the Tuesday next following the first Monday of November in each odd-numbered year, but the General Assembly may by law fix a different day, two-thirds of all the members of each House consenting thereto. Provided, That such elections shall always be held in an odd-numbered year," so as to read:

Section 3. All judges elected by the electors of the State shall hold office for a term of years, to be fixed by a general or municipal election, as circumstances may require. ## KILLED BY RIVAL IN DUEL FOR WOMAN

Men Battle With Her Consent With Revolvers.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Aug. 21.—Charles Williams, of Hazleton, Pa., died in a hospital from a bullet wound received in a duel over a woman.

Edward Raebler, who fired the shot, and the woman was also locked up.

Both men were suitors for the woman's hand and met at her home. With her consent, the police say, they agreed to fight it out, the victor to take her home.

The duel was fought at midnight. Each man, armed with a revolver, stepped off ten paces and then fired. Williams fell with a bullet in his brain. He lingered a short time after being taken to the hospital. The authorities have so far withheld the name of the woman.

DELAWARE REPUBLICANS

Charles R. Miller, of Wilmington, Named for Governor.

Dover, Del., Aug. 21.—The forces captained by General T. Coleman du Pont routed those led by his cousin, United States Senator Henry A. du Pont in the most complicated fight that has been waged in any Delaware Republican convention of recent years.

Charles R. Miller, of Wilmington, lawyer and capitalist, was nominated for governor and George H. Hall, a merchant of Milford, Sussex county, defeated the present incumbent, William H. Heald, for the congressional nomination.

Heald's defeat was traceable briefly to T. Coleman du Pont's vigorous and relentless opposition and to the invocation by him of the precedent which gives to a Delaware congressman no more than two terms.

Henry K. Fooks, of Laurel, was named for lieutenant governor; David S. Clark, of Kent, was made a candidate for state treasurer, and James M. Satterfield, of Kent, for attorney general.

John Bancroft, of Wilmington, and Daniel M. Wilson, of Kent county, and Harry V. Lyons, of Sussex, were named as electors.

PLATFORM FALLS AT NOTIFICATION

200 Hurlled to Ground at Democratic Gathering.

SCORE OF PERSONS HURT

Men, Women and Children Drop Twenty Feet as Judge Parker Tells Governor Marshall of Nomination.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 21.—The platform behind the speaker's stand collapsed in the midst of the ceremonies attending the formal notification of Governor Thomas R. Marshall of his nomination by the Democrats as their vice presidential candidate.

The accident occurred as Judge Alton B. Parker, of New York, was delivering the notification speech. More than 200 persons, including women and children, were in the stand, and most of them were precipitated twenty feet to the ground, a mangled mass of humanity and platform wreckage.

A score of persons were more or less seriously hurt. The cause of the accident was the giving way of a brace under the centre of the stand.

Ten or fifteen of them were badly bruised and cut, but it was said none was seriously injured. They were carried into the state Democratic club on Vermont street, in front of which the stand had been erected.

Declaring that the Republican party had fostered special privilege to the point of making men everywhere turn toward socialism and asserting that, if it ever came to the point where he must choose between "the paternalism of the few" and socialism he would be "with the throbbing heart of humanity," the governor formally accepted the nomination.

Mr. Marshall had received the official notification of his nomination from Judge Parker, the head of the notification committee, by virtue of having been temporary chairman of the Baltimore convention. Mr. Parker devoted much of his speech to an attack on the third party, third-term candidacy of Colonel Roosevelt.

In his speech Governor Marshall said:

"It is idle for a thoughtful man in America, whether millionaire or pauper, to longer play the ostrich. Safety does not consist in hiding one's head in the sands of either sentiment or hope. It is foolish for the vastly rich to keep on insisting that more and more shall be added to their riches through a specious system of special legislation ostensibly enacted to run the government, in reality enacted to loot the people.

"It is worse than ignorance for them to smile at the large body of intelligent Americans who regard themselves as fortunate if the debt and credit accounts of life balance at the end of the year, and to assume that the mighty many, who are becoming convinced that the social system that we call democracy is but a glittering generally, will long endure the industrial slavery being produced.

"Whether voting the ticket or not, men everywhere looking upon the awful injustice of this economic system are becoming socialistic in theory if not in conduct.

"I do not hesitate to say that if it be impossible to restore this republic to its ancient ideals—which I do not believe—and I must make the ultimate choice between the paternalism of the few and the socialism of the many, count me and my house with the throbbing heart of humanity.

"The discontent in Republican ranks is Democratic discontent. How much of it has reached the point where, wearied with bad workings of a good system, it is willing to topple that system over and try something new, I cannot prophesy. But I am quite sure that whatever badge men may wear in America this year, what ever ballots they may cast and what ever battle cries they may utter, there are but three grades of citizens.

"The first grade is made up of the favored few, their hangers-on and their beneficiaries, who think the eagle is upon the dollar, not as an emblem of liberty, but as an emblem of power and who look upon government as an annex of their business affairs.

"The second grade consists of those whose outlook upon life has been enlarged by the civilization under which we live, who have been taught by the school and the colleges, by the press and the magazine, who appreciate the good things in life, whose horizon has been enlarged and whose capacity for joy and sorrow has been increased.

"They have reached the point where, in the struggle for that which they believe to be right, they are willing to destroy the ideals of the republic.

"The third grade of citizens it pleases me to call old-fashioned constitutional Democrats. These old-fashioned Democrats believe in making money, but believe every dollar made should be so clean that an infant may cut its teeth upon it. And they hold that it is no part of government to boost one man and boot another."

Carbondale, Pa., Aug. 21.—Eight new cases reported to the authorities brought to sixteen the total number of smallpox cases here. Several of them are in the heart of the town, and much alarm is felt.

MAD CATS BITE 9 IN ROYERSFORD

Burgess Orders Slaughter of Every Poor Tabby.

Royersford, Pa., Aug. 21.—This town is being practically terrorized by mad cats—felines afflicted apparently with hydrophobia. Within four weeks no fewer than nine persons have been bitten by the rabid animals.

Chief of Police H. H. Beideman has shot and killed seven-four cats, and Burgess Fred Keeley determined that every cat in the borough would have to be killed.

The list of persons bitten includes: Mrs. Clayton Isett, John Sheeler, Kathryn Grater, the six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grater; John Boyle, Jr., aged five years; John Nettles, an eight-year-old boy; Mrs. A. Spare, John Rosenberger, eJannette Newborn, daughter of John Newborn, and a little grandson of Atmore Loomis.

All of these, with the exception of two, have been sent to either the Pasteur Institute in New York for treatment, or to an institution at Marietta, Pa. At these places, and at other institutions where the heads of a number of cats that were killed were sent, it has been declared that the cats had symptoms of hydrophobia.

CHAPTER XX.

In Which Mr. Stone Washes His Hands.

Mr. Abner Stone, of Stone & Barker, marine outfitters and ship chandlers, with a place of business on Commercial street in Boston, and a bank account which commanded respect throughout the city, was feeling rather irritable and out of sorts. Poor relations are always a nuisance. Mr. Stone had "washed his hands" of his cousin, Keziah Coffin, or thought he had. After her brother Solomon died she had written to him, asking him to find her a position of some kind in Boston. "I don't want money, I don't want charity," wrote Keziah. "What I want is work. Can you get it for me, Abner? I write because father used to tell of what you said to him about gratitude and how you would never rest until you had done something in return for what he did for you."

Captain Ben Hall's kindness was the one thing Mr. Stone forgot when he said no one had ever helped him. He disliked to be reminded of it. It was a long while ago and the captain was dead. However, being reminded, he had called upon a friend in the tailoring line and had obtained for Keziah the place of sewing woman. She decided to become housekeeper at the Trumet parsonage and so notified him. Then he washed his hands of her.

But now he was compelled to soil them again. Keziah had appeared at his office, without warning, and demanded that he find her a position. "Demanded" was the proper word. Certainly she had not begged. She seemed to feel that her demand was right and proper, and his acceding to it the least he could do.

"What a fine place you've got here, Abner!" she said, inspecting the office and store. "I declare it's finer than the one you had when you first went into business, afore you failed. I wish father could have lived to see it. He'd have realized that his judgment was good, even though his investment wasn't."

Captain Hall had invested largely in that first business, the one which failed. Mr. Stone changed the subject. Later in the day he again sought his friend, the tailor, and Keziah was installed in the loft of the latter's Washington street shop, beside the other women and girls who sewed and sewed from seven in the morning until six at night. Mr. Stone had left her there and come away, feeling that an unpleasant matter was disposed of. He had made some inquiries as to where she intended staying, even added a half-hearted invitation to dinner that evening at his home. But she declined.

"Listen! Listen to Mel Ansel Coffin is dead."

"No, thank you, Abner," she said. "I'm going to find a boardin' place and I'd just as soon nobody knew where I was for the present. And there's one thing I want to ask you: don't tell a soul I am here. Not a soul. If anyone should come askin' for me, don't give 'em any satisfaction. I'll tell you why some day, perhaps. I can't now."

This was what troubled Mr. Stone as he sat in his office. Why should this woman wish to have her whereabouts kept a secret? There was a reason for this, of course. Was it a respectable reason, or the other kind? If the latter, his own name might be associated with the scandal. He wished, for the fiftieth time, that there were no poor relations.

A boy came into the office. "There is some one here to see you, Mr. Stone," he said.

"Who is it?"

"I don't know, sir. Looks like a seafaring man, a sea captain. I should say—but he won't give his name. Says it's important and nobody but you'll do."

"Humph! All right. Tell him to wait. I'll be out in a minute."

Sea captains and ship owners were Stone & Barker's best customers. The senior partner emerged from the office with a smile on his face.

"Ah!" he said, extending his hand. "Glad to see you, Captain—er—"

"Hammond," replied the visitor. "Name to you, Mr. Stone."

"Fine weather for this time of year."

"Fine enough, Mr. Stone."

"Well, Captain Hammond, what can we do for you? Going to sail soon?"

"Not right away. Just made port, less'n a week ago. Home looks good to me, for a spell, anyhow."

"So? Yes, I have no doubt. Let me see—where is your home, captain? I should remember, of course, but—"

"Don't know why you should. This is my first trip in your latitude, I guess. My home's at Trumet."

"Trumet?" Mr. Stone's tone changed.

"Yes. Trumet, down on the Cape. Ever been there? We think it's about as good a place as there is."

"Hu-u-m! Trumet? Well, Captain Hammond, you wished to see me, I understand."

"Yes. Fact is, Mr. Stone, I want to ask you where I can find Mrs. Keziah Coffin. She's a relation of yours, I believe, and she's come to Boston lately. Only yesterday or the day afore. Can you tell me where she is?"

"Why do you wish to see her?"

"Oh, for reasons, personal ones. She's a friend of mine."

"I see. No, captain, I can't tell you where she is. Good morning."

Captain Nat was greatly disappointed.

"Hold on there, just a minute," he begged. "This is important, you understand, Mr. Stone. I'm mighty anxious to find Keziah—Mrs. Coffin. We thought, some of her friends and I, that most likely you'd know where she was. Can't you give us any help at all? Hasn't she been here?"

"Good morning, Captain Hammond. You must excuse me, I'm busy."

He went into the office and closed the door. Captain Nat rubbed his forehead desperately. He had been almost sure that Abner Stone would put him on Keziah's track. Grace had thought so, too. She remembered what the housekeeper had told concerning her Boston cousin and how the latter had found employment for her when she contemplated leaving Trumet, after her brother's death. Grace believed that Keziah would go to him at once.

Nat walked to the door and stood there, trying to think what to do next. A smart young person, wearing a conspicuous suit of clothes, aided and abetted by a vivid waistcoat and a pair of youthful but promising side whiskers, came briskly along the sidewalk and stopped in front of him.

"Well, sir?" observed this person, with cheerful condescension. "Anything I can do for you?"

Captain Nat turned his gaze upon the side whiskers and the waistcoat.

"Hey?" he queried.

"I say, is there anything I can do for you?"

The captain shook his head.

"No-o-o," he drawled dryly. "I'm afraid not, son. I admit that don't seem scarcely possible, but I am afraid it's so."

"Looking for something in our line, was you?"

"Well, I don't know. What might be on your line—clothes?"

The bewhiskered one drew himself up. "I am connected with Stone & Barker," he said sharply. "And, seeing you standing in our doorway, I thought possibly—"

"Yes, yes. Beg your pardon, I'm sure. No, I don't want to buy anything. I come to see Mr. Stone on a personal matter."

"He's busy, I suppose."

"So he says."

The young man smiled with serene satisfaction. "I'm not surprised," he observed complacently. "We are a busy house, Mr.—er—"

"Hammond's my name. Are you Mr. Barker?"

"No-o-o, my name is Prince."

"So? Silent partner in the firm, hey?"

"No-o-o, not exactly." Mr. Prince was slightly embarrassed. "No, I am a salesman—at present. Was the matter you wished to see Mr. Stone about a very private one?"

"Middle!"

"Well, I asked because Mr. Stone is a busy man and we like to save him all the—"

"Trouble you can, hey? That's nice of you, you must save him a lot, Mr.—er—King, was it?"

"No, Prince."

"Sure and sarth", Prince, of course. I knew 'twas connected with the royal family. Well, Mr. Prince, I'm afraid even you can't help me nor him out of this time. I'm lookin' up a friend of mine, a widow lady from down the Cape. She's a relation of Mr. Stone's, and she's come to Boston during the last day or so. I thought likely he might know where she was, that's all. That would be a little out of your latitude, hey?"

"I don't know. Her name wasn't Coffin, was it?"

Captain Nat started. "It certainly was," he answered eagerly. "How'd you know that?"

Mr. Prince's complacency was superb. "Oh," he answered with condescension. "Mr. Stone trusts me with a good many of his personal affairs."

"I should think likely he would. But about Mrs. Coffin? You was goin' to say?"

"She is with James Hallett & Co., the tailors, on Washington street. Mr. Stone found a place for her there, I believe. I—er—er—superintended the carrying of her valise and—"

"Nothin', nothin'. Hum! Hallett & Co., tailors? What number Washington street did you say?"

Mr. Prince gave the number.

"Thank you a lot," said Captain Nat, with fervor. "Good-by, Mr. Prince. Hope the next time I come you'll be in the firm. Good day, sir."

"Good day. Nothing else I can do? And you won't wait for Mr. Stone? Very good. Is there any message for him that you would like to leave?"

"Hey?" Nat had started to go, but now he paused and turned. There was a grim twinkle in his eye. "Message?" he repeated. "Why, yes, I don't know but there is. You just give Mr. Stone Cap'n Hammond's compliments and tell him I'm lookin' forward to interview him some time. Just tell him that, will you?"

"I'll tell him. Glad to have met you, Captain Hammond."

In the workshop of Hallett & Co., Keziah sat sewing busily. The window near her was closed, stuck fast, and through the dingy panes she could see only roofs and chimneys. The other women and girls near her chatted and laughed, but she was silent. She did not feel like talking, certainly not like laughing. The garment she was at work on was a coat, a wedding coat, so the foreman had told her, with a smile; therefore she must be very particular. From behind the closed door of this room came the sound of voices, apparently in heated argument. One of these voices was that of Larry, the errand boy. Larry was speaking shrilly and with emphasis. The other voice was lower in key and the words were inaudible.

"No, sir, you can't," declared Larry. "You can't, I tell you. The boss don't let nobody in there and—Hold on! Hold on!"

The other voice made a short but evidently earnest answer. Larry again expostulated. The workers looked up from their sewing. The door opened and Larry appeared, flushed and excited.

"Where's Mr. Upham?" he demanded. "Mr. Upham?"

Upham was the foreman of the workshop. At the moment he was downstairs in conversation with the head of the house. A half dozen gave this information.

"What's the matter? Who is it?" asked several.

"I don't know who 'tis. It's a man and he's crazy, I think. I told him he couldn't come in here, but he just keeps a-comin'. He wants to see somebody named Coffin and there ain't no Coffins here."

Keziah's nearest neighbor leaned toward her.

"I guess it's somebody to see you," she said. "Your name is Coffin, ain't it?"

"No, no. That is, it can't be anybody to see me. I don't want to see anybody. Tell him so, whoever it is. I can't see anybody. I—Nat!"

"Keziah," he said, "come here. I want you. I'll tell you why in a minute. Come!"

She hesitated. In a measure she was relieved, for she had feared the man at the door might be her husband. But she was greatly agitated and troubled. Everyone in the place was looking at her.

"Nat," she said, trying to speak firmly. "I can't see you now. I'm very busy. Please go away."

"Come!"

"I can't come. Go away. Please!"

"Keziah, I'm waitin'. And I'm goin' to wait if I stay here all night. Come!"

She obeyed them. She could not have a scene there, before all these strangers. She stepped past him into the little room. He followed and closed the door.

"Nat," she said, turning to him. "why did you come? How could you be so cruel? I—"

He interrupted her, but not with words. The next moment his arms were about her and she was pressed tight against the breast of his blue jacket.

"Keziah," he whispered, "I've come to take you home. Home for good. No, stay where you are and I'll tell you all about it. Praise be to God! we're off the rocks at last. All that's left is to tow you into port, and by the everlasting, that's what I'm here for!"

When Upham came up the stairs after his long interview with "the boss," he found the door at the top closed. When he rattled the latch that door was opened by a stranger.

"Are you Mr. Hallett?" asked Captain Nat briskly.

"No, I'm not. Mr. Hallett is in his office on the first floor. But what—"

"On the main deck, hey? Well, all right; we won't trouble him. You'll do just as well; I judge you're one of the mates of this craft. You tell Mr. Hallett that this lady here has decided not to cruise with him any longer. No fault to find, you understand, but she's got a better berth. She's goin' to ship along with me. Ain't that so, Keziah?"

Keziah, pale, trembling, scarcely realizing the situation even yet, did not speak. But Captain Nat Hammond seemed to find his answer in her silence. A few minutes later, her arm in his, they descended the gloomy stairs, and emerged into the sunshine together.

That afternoon Mr. Abner Stone again "washed his hands" of his poor relation—this time, as he indignantly declared, "for good and all."

(To Be Continued.)

YUAN'S JOB IN DANGER.

Execution of General May Cause Downfall of Chinese President

Before Sun Yat Sen left Shanghai for Peking to demand an accounting from President Yuan Shih Kai for the shooting of his friend General Cheng Tsen Chu and other republican army officers he left orders for an immediate mobilization of the military forces in southern China. The picture is that of President Yuan.

DR. SUN STILL ALIVE, REPORTS INDICATE

Efforts Being Made to Keep Him From Peking.

San Francisco, Aug. 21.—Dr. Sun Yat Sen, first provisional president of the Chinese republic, is still alive. Dispatches received here deny the report that the head of the republic movement in China was assassinated.

PLOTS AGAINST DR. SUN.

Peking, China, Aug. 21.—Numerous telegrams have been sent to Chi-Fu by friends of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, father to the Chinese republic, advising him not to continue his journey to Peking.

A number of counter revolutionaries in the Chinese capital are said to be planning Dr. Sun Yat Sen's assassination. This fact probably gave rise to the report that he had been slain at the instigation of President Yuan Shih Kai.

The national assembly considered the explanation of the government in regard to the execution of General Chang Chen Wu and General Feng Wei, members of Dr. Sun Yat Sen's party, who were summarily put to death a few days ago, and decided that it was unsatisfactory. The members of the assembly demand the attendance of the premier and war minister to give further explanations.

The government claims to have proof of the guilt of the executed generals and of the complicity of several high officials in the government service in a secret society for the overthrow of the government. The plans of this society are regarded as a continuation of a plot recently unearthed at Hankow to revolt against the present government, and General Chang Chen Wu was looked upon by the government as belonging to the type of political assassins who had been produced in the course of the various Chinese revolutions.

KILLS BOY AND HIMSELF

Farmer, Trying to Kidnap Girl, Slays One and Wounds Two.

Belle Plaine, Kan., Aug. 21.—In a fight that followed an attempt by Sam Wood, a farmer, thirty-five years old, to kidnap Ethel Manahan from her home on a farm near here, James Thompson, sixteen years old, was killed; Mat Manahan, father of the girl, was fatally wounded, and Gaylord Manahan, sixteen years old, a son, was hurt, but not seriously.

Wood spared young Manahan's life when the latter agreed to drive him away from the farm. A posse went in pursuit.

Wood was overtaken near his own farm, two miles north of Belle Plaine. He ran from a cornfield into the road and fired three bullets into his own breast. He was brought to Belle Plaine fatally injured.

Steel Man's Motor Burns.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 21.—An automobile occupied by John W. Daugherty, president of the Crucible Steel company of Pittsburgh, caught fire while running between this city and Carlisle, and Mr. and Mrs. Daugherty and their four children had narrow escapes from injury. The machine and all trunks and valises containing clothing used on a two weeks' tour were burned.

Youth of Eighteen a Suicide.

Washington, Aug. 21.—Henry Rogers, eighteen years old, son of a once prominent Washington family, who had been an orphan since he was six years old, killed himself by inhaling illuminating gas. A few years ago, his father, a well-to-do lawyer, shot the boy's mother while she was asleep and then shot himself.

LEWIS E. KIRSSIN,
Clothing, Shoes and Furnishing Goods.

A Wretch, indeed.
He sees life through
A faulty prism,
Whose heart is steeped
In cynicism.

An Exaggerated Comparison.
"What makes you think that man is necessarily a great statesman?" asked Senator Sorghum.
"Because he is a clever lawyer."
"My dear sir, to assume that a clever lawyer is necessarily a great statesman is the same as taking it for granted that a numismatician is a financier."

Propriety.
"I do not think, Augustus, that the resort recommended to you is a proper place for me to take our dear Angelina."
"Why not, my dear Matilda?"
"Because I've heard so much talk among the people who have been there of the boats hugging the shore."

Too Lazy.
"Do you believe that a big fish really swallowed Jonah?"
"Certainly; you've either got to believe the literal story or hunt out the deep, hidden significance of it if it's an allegory—and that's too much work. I prefer to take the story just as it is."

NOT BRAINY.

Fred—The best capital a man can have is brains.
Florence—You can't be accused of making a vulgar display of your wealth.

No Wonder.
A life upon the rolling deep
He thought would be just fine;
His breakfast down he could not keep
So now he hates the brine.

Fun in a Pullman.
"Were you not scared when the masked highwayman came through the sleeping car and demanded your money at the point of a revolver?"
"Scared? No, I thought it was a mighty good joke on the porter."

Cruelty.
"These are the children of my brain," said the man with the bunch of poems.
"Some children," replied the editor, "ought to be in the reform school."

RINGWORM

An Easy And Very Successful Treatment.

Try this remedy at our risk.

You know what ringworm looks like—starting as a little circular patch of tiny pimples, which dry up into scales and are followed by another crop on the outer edge, thus enlarging the ring all the time.

It may be caught from children, and from dogs and cats. Tincture of iodine is the old remedy, but we have a better one now—Saxo Salve, our new skin remedy.

Apply Saxo Salve a few times (as directed by the book in the box) and the ring worm vanishes. Saxo Salve so saturates the skin with its powerful yet soothing ingredients, that the ringworm parasites are destroyed.

Of course, Saxo Salve has many other uses. All kinds of skin eruptions and disorders, eczema, barber's itch and tetter yield to Saxo Salve. It is a wonderful remedy and we guarantee it most positively. People's Drug Store, Gettysburg, Pa.
